

Teaching Assessment Note Taking Organizer

Lesson Plan Objectives:

- students will be able to articulate a rationale for assessment that connects assessment to learning objectives and student needs
- students will recognize the link between the final assessment product and the instruction that comes before it
- students will be able to respond to the tensions present in grading or evaluating student work, and begin to articulate personal approaches to this task

Observation Questions:

- How do the objectives for this day's lesson align with the course objectives listed in the syllabus?
- What teaching strategies helped students reach the objectives for this session?
- What "teacher moves" supported or restricted dialogue, participation or student involvement?
- What ideas, approaches, and experiences might you use in your own lesson preparations?
- What ideas, approaches, and experiences might not work with middle or high school aged learners?
